16th June 2019 – The Most Holy Trinity

Flatlanders and the Trinity

Imagine, if you can, a group of tiny people who live in a two-dimensional world. They have length and width but not height. They can move and see in any direction except up and down. Now imagine you poked three fingers right into their world. All they see, in so far as they see anything, is three separate circles. They would have no idea that these belong to one three dimensional hand. The very notion of a three-dimensional world is beyond them. Imagine putting your face as close to their world as possible, closer than they are to each other. They would have no idea you were there. You are always just beyond the horizon of their vision and understanding. So it is with us and God. We exist in a three-dimensional world but God exists in a world of infinite dimensions. Things that are obvious and natural to God appear as mysterious and unfathomable to us as we would to the Flatlanders. Where God is concerned, we are the Flatlanders. But he has plans to beef us up a bit.

What do adults in Ireland need for their religious education and faith development? Researchers at the Mater Dei Centre for Catholic Education (MDCCE) at Dublin City University are embarking on an exciting three-year project which will aim to explore the nature, scope and potential of religious education and faith development for adults in Ireland. The researchers are inviting all adults in Ireland to complete an online survey that will help them understand what Irish adults think and feel about religious education and how we might best develop this in the future. The survey can be accessed at www.dcu.ie/adultre and is open until 30th June 2019. For more, contact bernadette.sweetman@dcu.ie
