9th June 2019 – Pentecost Sunday

Send Forth Your Spirit

A man who was searching for answers to the great questions of life decided to call to a hermit in the forest to ask how he could find God. For a while the hermit just sat there and said nothing. When the man was about to give up in despair and leave, the hermit stood up and said, 'Follow me'. He led him to a nearby river and invited him to step in. Suddenly, he grabbed the man and held his head under the fast-flowing water. For a short while the man offered no resistance but, when he found himself fighting for breath, he struggled to break free. The hermit released him, stepped out of the river and began walking back to his hut. The other man caught up with him along the path and said, 'What was that about?' The hermit answered, 'When you know you need God as much as you need the air you breathe, only then will you find him.'

Do we understand that the Spirit is as basic as breathing to our Christian lives? That we can do nothing that will live in eternal life without his help?
