Life After Death

Benjamin Franklin, one of the Founding Fathers of the United States, writer, printer, philosopher, politician, scientist, inventor, statesman and diplomat, whose formal education ended when he was 10, once wrote an epitaph for himself which became famous - though it does not appear on his headstone. It ran:

The Body of B. Franklin, Printer. Like the Cover of an old Book, Its Contents torn out,

And Stript of its Lettering & Gilding, Lies here, Food for Worms.

But the Work shall not be lost, For it will, as he believ'd appear once more in a new and elegant Edition
